AESCULAPIAN WAND

Life is short; art is long, experience difficult

"The Aesculpian staff has often been confused with the caduceus, the "Herald's Wand" used by Hermes, or Mercury, to open doors between gods and men but the Aseculapian staff entwined by one snake is regarded by classicists as the true symbol of the profession."

I entered medical school after three years of applying with expectations of a difficult but rewarding educational experience. The difficulty was there and I was rewarded by the births of my two daughters, but not by medical school. I feel deeply indebted to my God, my family, my friends, and the note service for helping me get into and through medical school.

I wish for each of my classmates two things: the degree of peace and love I've found in my wife and children, and the faith and hope I've found in Jesus Christ.

"Thank God we Made It!"

STEPHEN BECKER

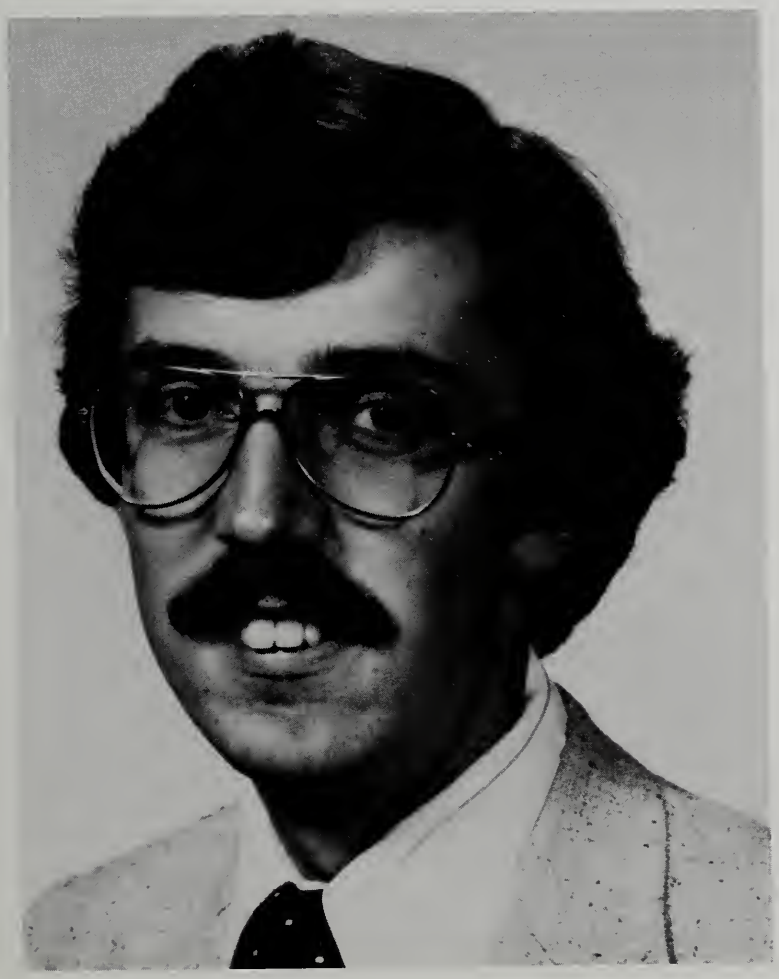
Was raised in Maryland, college in Georgia, looking for a practice back out in the country. Enjoys all sports, hiking, biking and camping. Looking forward to the practice of medicine.

MARY CAROL DERKACH BOLDEN

Family Practice
Shadyside Hospital — Pittsburgh, Pennsylvania

Mary is a native Baltimorean. She is a graduate of Loyola College in Baltimore where she majored in both Biology and English Literature and was awarded the Whelan Medal at graduation for the highest cumulative average. Prior to entering medical school, Mary taught eleventh grade English at Mt. Carmel High School. She has been a member of the Family Practice Club for the past four years and has done externships in both Family Practice and OB-GYN. Following completion of her Sophomore year she married classmate Richard Bolden. Mary's career plans include residency training in Family Practice with eventual establishment of a group practice. Her outside interests include snow skiing, tennis, bicycling, browsing in art galleries and museums and shell collecting along East Coast beaches. She also enjoys reading 19th and 20th Century British and American novels in her limited leisure time and is a particular fan of Joseph Conrad.



RICHARD OWEN BOLDEN

Diagnostic Radiology
University Health Center of Pittsburgh —
Pittsburgh, Pennsylvania

Rich is from Cumberland in the mountains of Western Maryland. He obtained a B.S. in Chemistry from Washington and Lee University where he was valedictorian of his graduating class. Rich worked as a histology lab assistant and also developed an interest in Physical and Rehabilitation Medicine. Tennis, skiing, spy novels and Impressionistic art are among Rich's outside interests. In the month between the second and third years of medical school, and after 1½ years of persistence, he married classmate, Mary Carol Derkach. In his clinical years Rich developed a strong interest in Radiology reinforced by elective exposure and he plans to pursue a career in Diagnostic Radiology. His long term goals include a group practice in an environment which will allow him to serve an area of need, practice quality medicine, and share an active family life.

JOSEPH ALFRED BOULAY, JR.

Internal Medicine
University of S. Florida College of Medicine — Tampa, Florida

I was born and raised in Baltimore, Maryland. After graduating from Loyola High School, I attended Duke University in Durham, North Carolina, from which I received a Bachelor of Arts degree magna cum laude. I have been happily married and living in Lutherville for the past four years. My post-graduate plans include a residency in Internal Medicine leading ultimately to community practice.

Although in the cosmic realm of time man's life is insignificant, this is no excuse for mediocrity. To the contrary, the spark of life is a stimulus to do all one can with his limited resource of time. "Happy are those who dream dreams and are ready to pay the price to make them come true."

Well here we are getting ready to graduate and head toward internship, specialization, and practice. Incredible! Before we part I'd like you to meet my family, Nick, Kimberly, my older daughter, and Tara my younger one. These people are my constant energy source and support team.

So far as medical school is concerned it was such extracurricular activities as putting on the women's conference serving as secretary of the student council, doing independent research and being part of HDME that made the experience great. The future holds much promise. I'm going to miss a lot of your faces! And I'd like to wish each one of you success and happiness wherever you go.

LINDA LEIER CHAMBERS

Family Practice
Deaconess Hospital — Buffalo, New York

From Poughkeepsie and Long Island we came, and met at the used microscope sale! It was a good four years in Baltimore, but from here it's to Buffalo for a residency in Medicine for Charlie, and Family Practice for me. We hope to practice in a semi-rural group, somewhere in upstate New York.

CANDACE IRENE CHANDLER

Family Practice
University of Maryland Hospital — Baltimore, Maryland

Born in Baltimore, High School at Bryn Mawr. College at Duke University BA in Psychology, 1972. Worked three years in early childhood education and then as a nursing assistant while doing pre-med courses. Fond memories of: carpooling with Linda, John, and Rob; dozing through classes; drinking too much coffee; and a surprise 30th birthday party.

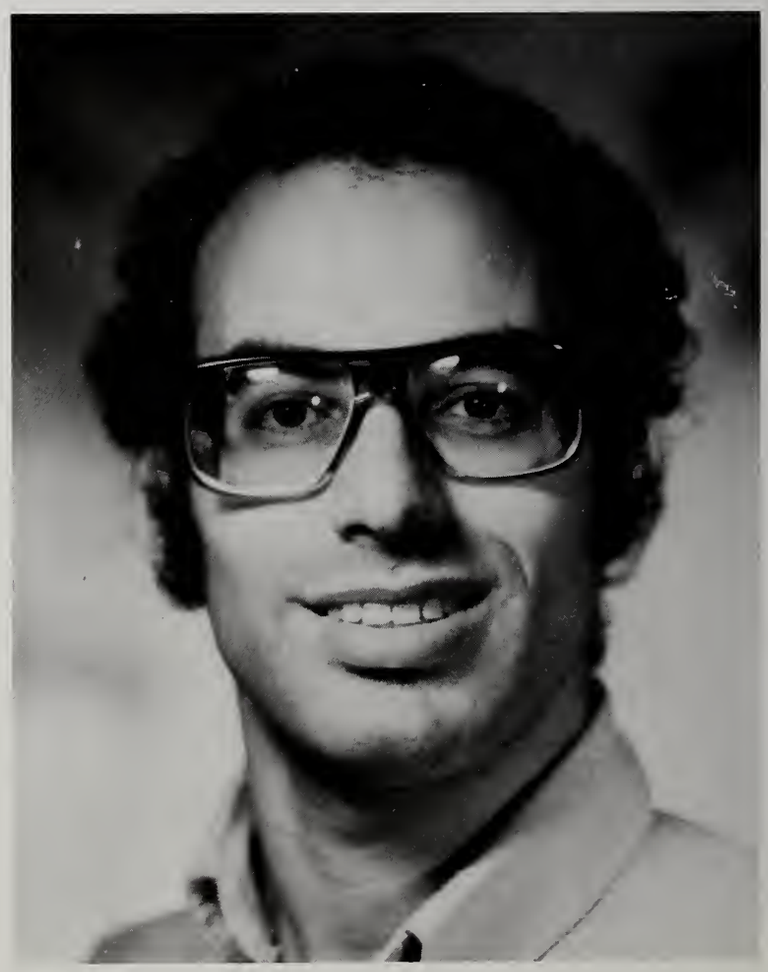
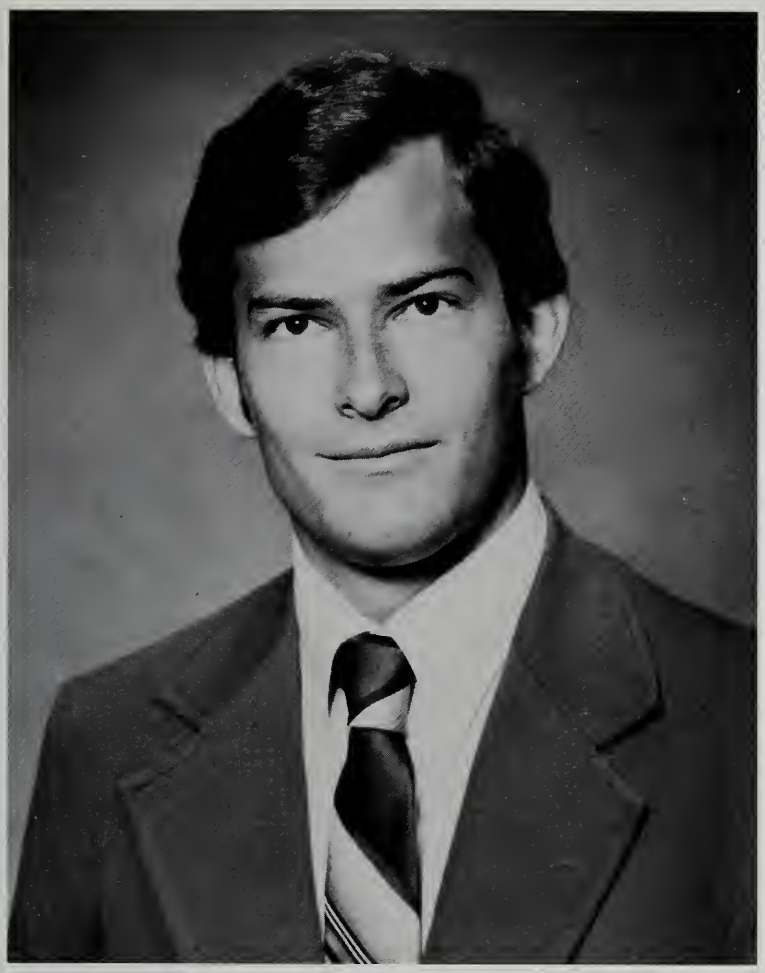
Goals: To be a good doctor and to learn something new every day.
"I am Ira, not Larry."





LLOYD GEORGE COX II

Orthopedic Surgery
North Carolina Memorial Hospital
Chapel Hill, North Carolina

After graduating from St. Alban's in 1974, I attended Emory University in Atlanta, Georgia. While at Emory I was elected to the Alpha Epsilon Upsilon and Phi Beta Kappa honorary scholastic fraternities. Prior to entering medical school I became a licensed commercial pilot with single, multiengine, and instrument ratings. I hope to pursue a career in orthopaedic surgery in the future while cultivating an interest in sailing and aviation. Amazingly I built my first sailboat, a 14 foot catamaran while a junior student at Maryland.

MICHAEL EDWARD DeWITT

Child Psychiatry
George Washington University Hospital —
Washington, D.C.

Michael came to medical school after growing up in Oakland, Maryland and attending West Virginia Wesleyan College. With the exception of singing for two semesters in the Baltimore Symphony Chorus, he has not actively pursued his extracurricular interests in music and drama during medical school. Of medical school, Michael remembers most vividly those brave patients and families who faced devastation and somehow went on. Michael looks forward to his marriage to Meg and to a career in child psychiatry.

DANIEL PATRICK FERRICK

Family Practice
Thomas Jefferson University — Philadelphia, Pennsylvania

Dan was raised in Elkton, Maryland, on the upper Eastern Shore. After attending Catholic grade school in Elkton, he attended St. Charles Seminary High School in Catonsville, Maryland with the ultimate goal of becoming a priest. He pursued this ambition through college, graduating with a BA in philosophy from St. Mary's Seminary College in Catonsville. After he left the seminary, Dan worked for a short time in Elkton before returning to college to pick up the required courses for application to medical school. He received a BS in biochemistry from the University of Maryland, College Park and worked for a year at the University of Delaware's College of Marine Studies before entering medical school in 1977. His hobbies include playing the guitar, listening to all kinds of music from classical to rock, and playing sports, particularly tennis. Since entering medical school he has married a classmate, Carol Marshall, with whom he plans to live happily ever after.

ROBERT ALAN FULD

Internal Medicine
University of Maryland Hospital — Baltimore, Maryland

Bob was born in Massachusetts, but was raised in Baltimore. He was admitted to medical school following his third year of undergraduate work at the University of Maryland, College Park, where he majored in biochemistry. After his first year of medical school, he married his wife, Sara, a writer/photographer. Bob's leisure time activities include tennis and racquetball, classical guitar and rooting for the Orioles and Terps. His favorite medical school moment: telling an 80 year old Vet who had a positive VDRL what his problem was. Bob plans to specialize in internal medicine, and will remain in the Baltimore area during his residency.

WAYNE EDMUND GAINES

Surgery
University of Maryland Hospital — Baltimore, Maryland

It has been a joy to learn medicine with this class and an honor to serve as your president. I look forward to practicing medicine with each of you side by side, with the spirit of human touch taught by Dr. Woodward and with the sophistication of our new era's technology.

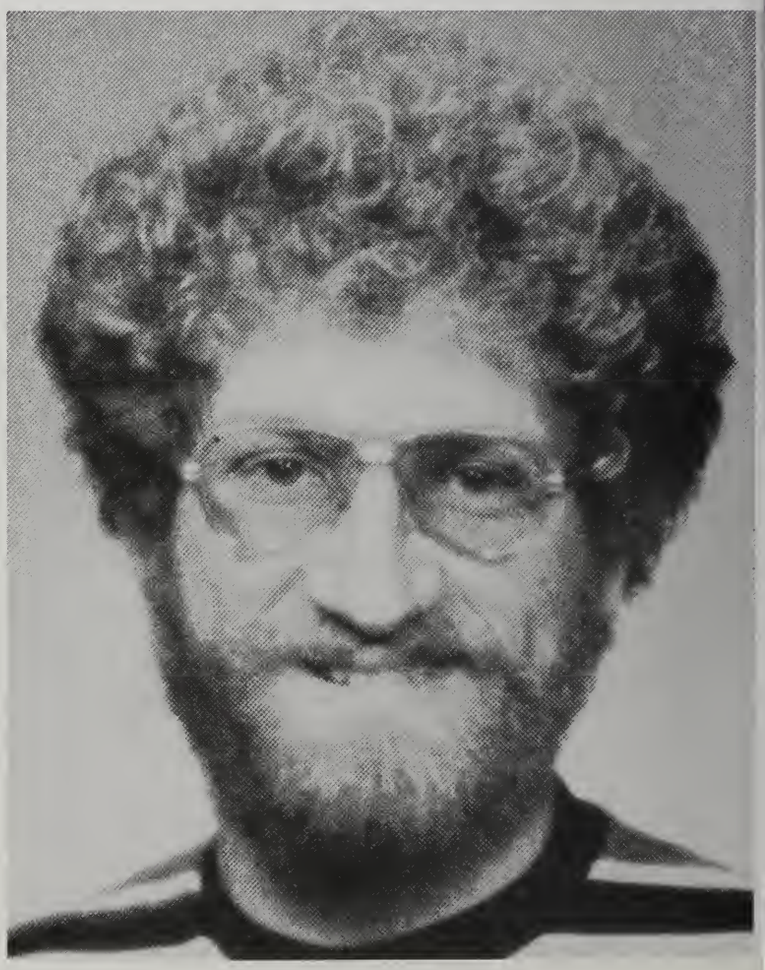
LEIGH ANN COON GIANNANDREA

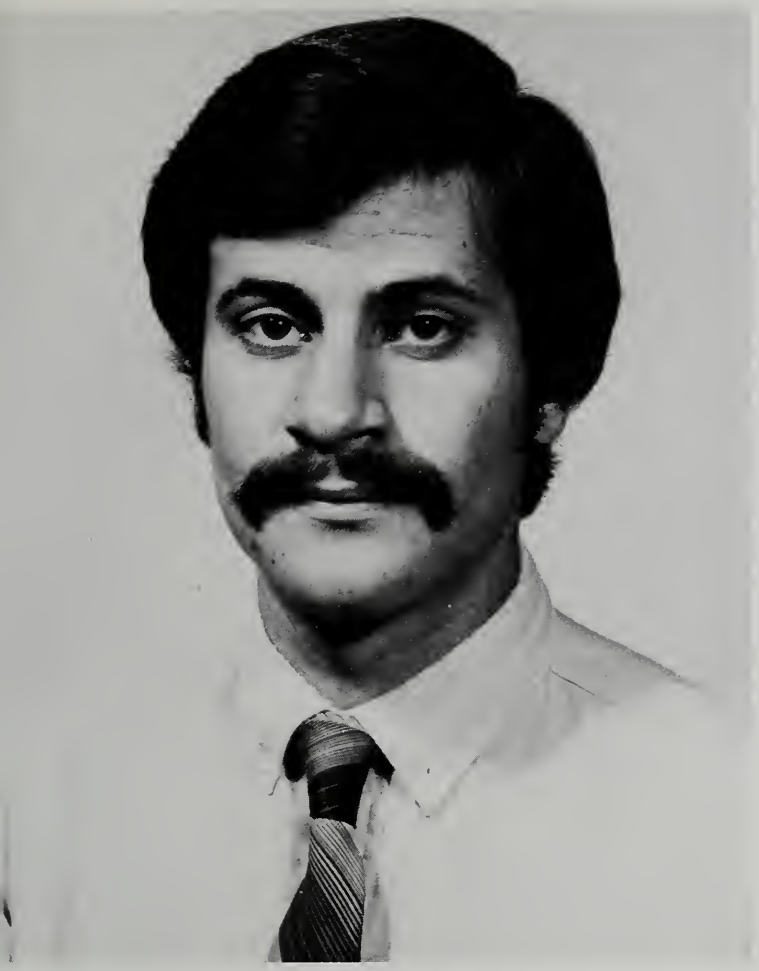
Pathology
University of Maryland Hospital — Baltimore, Maryland

I first came to Baltimore from my hometown of Rochester, N.Y. to attend college at Johns Hopkins. There I met my husband, Paul, who has been constantly supportive and patient during my pursuit of medicine both in college and medical school. After graduating from Hopkins in 1976 and spending one additional year working there, I entered University of Maryland Medical School. I now plan to start a residency in Pathology. I cannot get over the warmth and friendliness of all my classmates, from my anatomy group the first day to those I've worked with on the wards. And of course car-pooling! Dr. Bernice Sigman has been very helpful to me, smoothing over numerous "rough spots." I feel lucky to have had the encouragement and love of so many: my husband, parents, 8 sisters and brothers, and in-laws without whom I doubt I'd have made it to graduation in May '81.

ROBERT CHARLES GLORIOSO

Family Practice
York Hospital — York, Pennsylvania





SAMUEL CARL GOLD

Internal Medicine
Boston City Hospital — Boston, Massachusetts

Medical school is over and the years of residency begin. I wish to thank my parents, friends, and classmates for all their support over the past four years. My future plans in medicine include a residency in Internal Medicine and a fellowship in Cardiology. Best of luck to everyone.

HOPE ULENE GRIFFIN

Obstetrics/Gynecology
University of Maryland Hospital — Baltimore, Maryland

WARREN STERLING GROFF

Family Practice

Warren grew up in Glen Burnie, just south of Baltimore, and attended UMBC in Catonsville. He participated in the student note service and Family Practice Club while in medical school and plans to pursue a career in Family Practice. Outside of medicine, he enjoys tennis, computer science and camping.

GEORGINA A. GROLEAU

Internal Medicine
University of Maryland Hospital — Baltimore, Maryland

WILLIAM STEVE GRUSS

Internal Medicine
Mt. Sinai Medical Center — Miami Beach, Florida

Willy came to Maryland in the junior year after completing his basic sciences at the Universidad Central del Este in the Dominican Republic. !Ay Caramba! During a ski vacation with several classmates, he earned the nickname, "Jean Claude Willy," for his clinical expertise on the ski slopes. He plans to do an Internal Medicine residency, but is undecided whether he will subspecialize or change over to Family Practice at a later date.

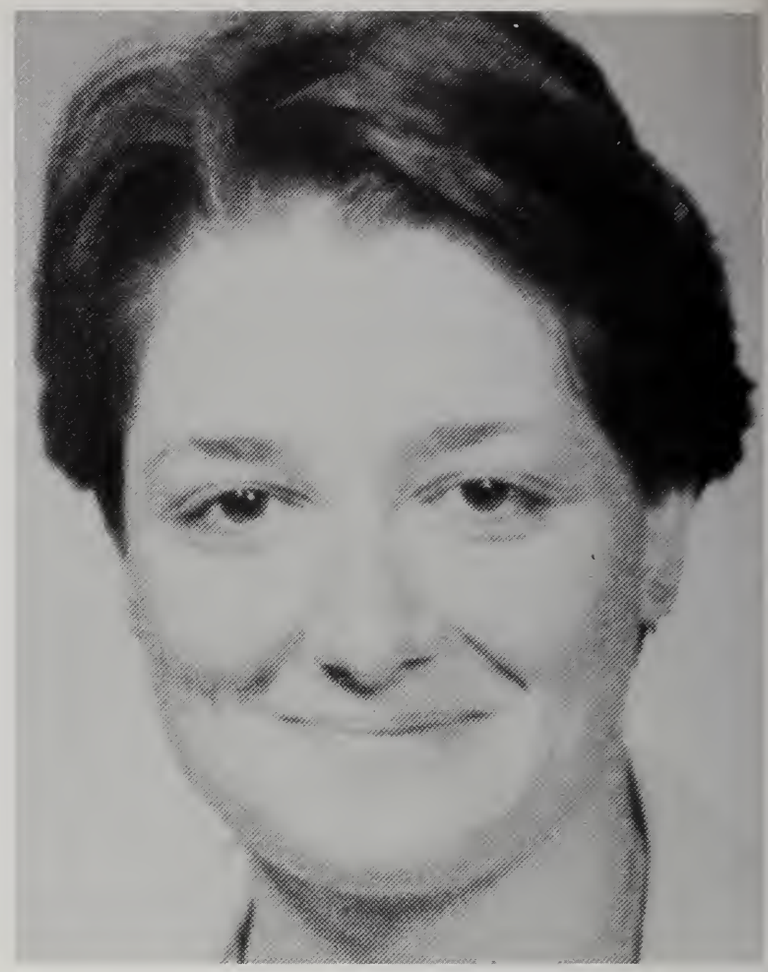
Member of Synapse Association

JOANNE HATEM

Internal Medicine
York Hospital — York, Pennsylvania



CAROL GARTHRIGHT HOOPER

Family Practice
University of Maryland Hospital — Baltimore, Maryland

Carol entered medical school as one of the "over the hill" gang, having gone to graduate school at the University of Michigan and taught public health courses at Towson State University for four years. A native of Richmond, Virginia and an alumna of the University of North Carolina, Carol would live no closer to Baltimore than Colubmia, Maryland with her husband, Peter. Her most memorable achievement was providing excellent notes for neonatal pathology and still managing to deliver a normal, healthy boy two weeks after National Boards Part I. Her proudest academic moment was flunking Irv Kessler's Epidemiology final with 97 other classmates. Her best clinical achievement was contracting hepatitis B from a needle stick at the V.A. Spa despite $300 worth of HBIG in the gluteus maximus. Carol plans a career in family practice in the Baltimore-Washington area.

STEVEN JASKULSKY

General Surgery
Sinai Hospital — Baltimore, Maryland

As a native of Baltimore, I attended local public schools then Western Maryland College, where I majored in chemistry, receiving a B.A. degree in 1977. During college, in addition to academics, I spent much time pursuing my musical avocation by being active in a variety of musical groups.

Following my final summer as a swim-club manager, I entered medical school. In July of 1978 I was married to the former Robin Max, also a native of Baltimore and a Western Maryland College graduate. Her understanding and support helped to make the years in medical school much more enjoyable. While in medical school I was an active member of A.M.S.A. and participated in the class Follies presentations.

At present, my plan is to pursue a residency in general surgery and subsequently enter a private practice.

Prose that is printed next to yearbook pictures generally takes one of three forms: the witticism, the epitaph, or the curriculum vitae. Within these stylistic constraints, one may proceed on virtually any subject. But which way to turn — Paeans to Irving Kessler? Dirges for purloined slides? Ruled out like so many zebra diagnoses. Maybe an acceptance speech, like for an Oscar, "thanking all the little people" (as they say) for everything — the teaching, the training, the stress . . . Reminiscing about the times you felt on top of the world, and the times So, perhaps, take the advice of the ancient savant: Si vous ne pouvez pas dire quelque chose aimable, rien du tout ne dire.

Sound familiar? A nice Jewish boy from Pikesville goes to College Park and then to University of Maryland Medical School. A macabre sort of Horatio Alger you might say. You may choose to remember me as the voice of Ed Sullivan and Lloyd Guth as well as the signature on the notetaking checks. I'd like to remember me as miraculously having left in better shape than I came. Words to ponder from G. B. Shaw, "Never let your sense of morals prevent you from doing what is right."

JOSEPH FRANCIS KNOTZ

Family Practice
UCLA Antelope Valley Hospital — Lancaster, California

Born in Czechoslovakia, Joe spent most of his youth in southern California and hopes to return there. He plans a residency in obstetrics-gynecology or family practice and has been preparing for this by practicing family diligently with his wife and two children. In his spare time Joe enjoys eating and sleeping. He claims vague memories of pre-medical school activities, such as skiing, tennis, chess and piano, and he hopes to indulge in them again on the weekend before his residency starts. A hard worker, Joe earned his way through medical school by employment at the Baltimore Histology Slide Supply Company, holding the position of chief supplier. Joe's friends find he has remained the same humble guy he was before medical school, and except for a little flat affect a few paroxysms of auditory hallucinations, an occasional lapse into autism, and a certain looseness in his associations, it would seem he has weathered his medical school years rather well. Parting message to all my friends: I will love and remember you guys always.

Two moments of inspiration stand out in my mind. Not long after starting out, those who were ahead of me were nearing the finish. With respect and a feeling of excitement I caught a glimpse of what could be my future, if I were only to continue. In spite of pain, I persevered, always keeping in mind my goal. As I, myself, drew nearer to the finish, I saw determination in the faces of the struggling ones who were just at their beginning. The minutes seemed like hours and now, looking back, the hours seem like minutes. But I did achieve my goal. I crossed the finish line . . . of the 26.2 mile 1980 Honolulu Marathon.

I was born and raised in Baltimore City. After receiving my early education at Grace and St. Peters Episcopal School in the heart of the city I attended public school for a few years before moving to an experimental high school in Washington, D.C. As a young teenager I left high school to work and travel. Eventually I obtained a GED from the State of Maryland. During my years out of school I was married and had a daughter. My college education began in 1973 at the Community College of Baltimore and ended with a B.A. from Gouvher College in Towson, Maryland in 1977. I've attended University of Maryland Medical School since 1977. During the past 4 years I've been divorced and remarried to classmate Daniel Ferrick. I'm hoping to pursue a career in Pathology while my husband plans to enter Family Practice. Watch out, Dr. Woodward, you better get on the phone to the governor soon!

Born: 11/11/55, Coral Gables, Florida Lived most of my life in Rockville, Maryland
Undergraduate Education: University of Maryland, College Park
Medical School: University of Maryland
Post-Graduate: Ophthalmology residency followed by a fellowship in retina surgery
Career Goals: To set up a clinical practice in a warm climate with an outlet for teaching
Family Plans: Hopefully, to be married to Lynn Sawdye this May or June and move south to Roanoke for my flexible internship. Someday I hope to have 2 or 3 children, all of whom are "smart" enough to avoid medicine as a career.
Hobbies: Bowling, baseball, running
Dream: To run a marathon in less than 3 hours and then compete in the Boston Marathon.

I leave here idealistic enough to be certain that there are better ways to educate doctors than these methods that we've been subjected to, but cynical enough (I've learned something in four years) to know that any such new ideas will never be put into practice. Most memorable experiences: the friends I've made. Most forgettable: many faculty members whose names I don't remember and any on-call night. Ambition: to live happily ever after as a family practioner on the Eastern Shore. If that doesn't work out, I'll settle for team F.P. for the Orioles. Remember, Opening Day is never more than a year away. Finally, behind each surviving medical student, there is someone with a lot of love, patience, and understanding. Thanks, Teri.

One day a downtrodden starving dog was plodding through a field of daisies when his jaundiced eye was attracted by a lovely gabacho butterfly fluttering above the smiling heads of the flowers. "Follow me, puerro desgraciado," said the butterfly. "Keep your eyes fixed on my rainbow-colored wings and I promise to lead you to the City of Juaja, where all ills are banished and perfect health will be yours!" So the dog trotted after the mariposa, his gaze fixed on the beautiful wings — and tripped over a log, breaking one leg. Still the poor puerro had had so much misfortune in his life, he couldn't resist the promise of that gabacho bug and hurried after him on 3 legs.

But a moment later the dog fell into a pit and broke 2 more legs. "Get up!" cried the gabacho insect. "We're almost there!" So the crippled pobrecito struggled onto his one good leg and was hopping across the highway like a pogostick, desperately chasing the pendejo mariposa when he was hit and killed by a Cadillac carrying four gabachos — an internist, a surgeon, an oncologist, and a pathologist. As the car sped off the hermosa mariposa waved sadly, "Bienvenido a Juaja, pobre hijo de la gran puta tu."

After graduating from the Universtiy of Pennsylvania, Mike returned to his native Baltimore to begin graduate study at the University of Maryland. He enjoyed his research in reproductive endocrinology, for which he almost won the Nobel Prize. Disappointed but not undaunted by the lack of insight of those in Stockholm, Mike settled for a career in medicine. For his stunning performances at the Synapse, the Campus Inn, and the Mount Washington Tavern, Mike was voted in his junior year to the Association of Oedipal Alcoholics. Some of his more memorable experiences in medical school include Oldtimer's Day at Memorial Stadium, June, 1979, the epidemiology final, the epidemiology final again, and the circumcision he performed as tunes from "Fiddler on the Roof" echoed through the Urology Clinic. Mike looks forward to a career in family practice.

Though I was born and raised to age 12 in suburban Silver Spring, Md., I tend to identify with a rural lifestyle as I experienced during my adolescence in Carroll County, Md. My undergraduate experience was divided between Boston University and UMBC as a double major in biology and psychology. I also spent one post-graduate year at UMBC in the department of biology. Through college and medical school I served as a counselor on a crisis intervention hotline and as an alcoholism counselor. Besides my academic interests, I am an avid sports fan, play table tennis, have a green belt in karate, like to read classic literature, and enjoy the arts (especially music). I plan upon going into Family Medicine as a career and eventually settling in rural Maryland or Pennsylvania.

DAVID PRESCOTT TIETJEN

Internal Medicine
Tripler Army Medical Center — Hawaii

I'm from Potomac, Md., and I received my B.S. in zoology from Duke University in 1976. During the years here at Maryland I've been "class security affairs advisor," the notetaker who was funnier, and had my debut as an actor in the Follies — not to mention keeping a near perfect record of attendance (at class parties, of course — or did you think I meant Epidemiology lectures?). In all seriousness though, knowing and working and laughing with my classmates has been the best part of medical school. I'll be doing my residency in Hawaii; Tripler Army Medical Center, to be exact. While there I hope to play a lot of golf, enjoy the sun that shines every day, and even become a good practioner of internal medicine. So if you, too, ever find yourself in the middle of the Pacific Ocean, be sure to look me up.

REBECCA LOUISE TOMINACK

"Becky" "The infamous 1190"
My hometown is Indian Head in southern Maryland where I grew up as the second of twelve children. I attended pre-nursery school, nursery school, kindergarten and then 12 years of small league Catholic school. Got my first college degree in computer programming at Charles County Community College while working full time as a clerk in a drug store. Going big places at that time. My real undergraduate degree is BS in Pharmacy, University of Maryland at Baltimore, valedictorian. In med school I was a first row seat addict with Kathryn Newman Freshman year but graduated to back row aisle for easy escape and finally correspondence school by end of Sophomore year. I tutored in Gross Anatomy, Neuroanatomy, and pharmacology. I took notes and translated Dr. Don's 2 hour psychotic raving sessions Intro to Clinical Practice Freshman year and pharmacology, given by a remarkable series of variable penetrance Trisomy 21's and other obviously genetic accidents. Hobbies in medical school — old: studying, embroidery, new: recumbancy, work avoidance. Research interest — the benefit to backfire ratio of "low profile" vs "making a scene."
Organizations: AMSA, AOA
Memorable events: "Myonecrosis following my first and last coed flag football game. "I can say sympathomimetic." Giving Edson X, Albuquerque the finger in a pharm lecture. Being in Theodore Woodward MD's Sophomore PD group. Being hit on the head by Dr. Woodward at medical grand rounds. Failing the clin path exam the first time. Teaching Bob Levitt to do crewel embroidery. Sophomore follies as Dr. Mrs. Woodward and the pharm bunny.
Plans: Residency in internal medicine, maybe chief resident so that I, too, can say "Well, professor?" to junior students, maybe fellowship in clinical pharmacology, maybe I'll flap my arms and fly to the moon. Think I'd be happier in academic medicine in a university center than as an LMD. Starting a sperm donor list.
THANKS EVERYONE, IT WAS A BLAST.

Brian graduated from the Univ. of Md., College Park, with a B.Sc. in chemical engineering. He participated in the activities of Alpha Chi Sigma, AICHE, Omega Chi Epsilon, and Tau Beta Pi. Work included being a technician in an environmental kinetics lab and an aerosol lab, then a teaching assistant in chemistry his senior year. Thoughts of medical school were not entertained till the summer after freshman year. Serious planning for medical school was not undertaken till halfway through the sophomore year. The first two years of medical school were a tremendous change from the "problem solving" of his engineering days. The clinical years made it all worthwhile though. Brian was on the minimester electives committee and spent his free time away from the wards and books tending his hopeless addiction to science fiction and electronic gadgets/widgets. His engineering background is always lurking just over his shoulder, and he continues to toy with the idea of returning to graduate school later on and/or perhaps getting involved in some medical research. Brian is definitely ready for the warmer clime of San Diego, but will probably return to the east coast to settle down.

EDWARD C. WATTERS, III

Internal Medicine
Mercy Hospital — Baltimore, Maryland

Ed (Terry) will be continuing his studies in ophthalmology at the University of Maryland, starting in 1982. Following completion of this residency he expects to open a private practice in his hometown, Annapolis.

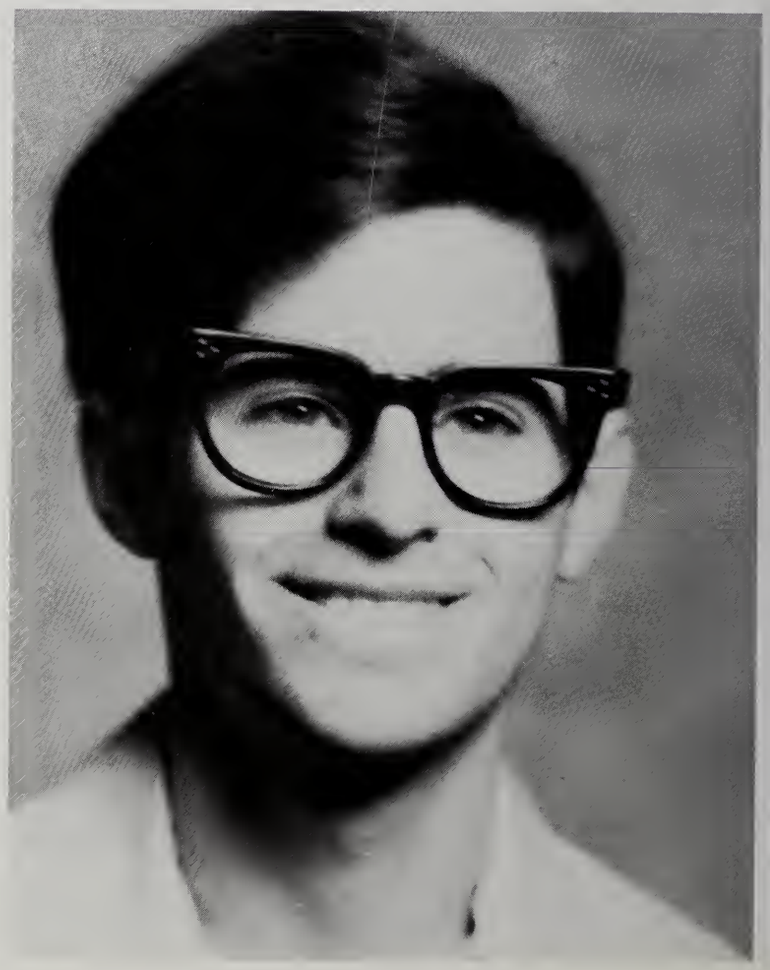
LAWRENCE WEISS

Pathology
Peter Brent Brigham Hospital — Boston,
Massachusetts

I was graduated from the University of Maryland at College Park and was class valedictorian in 1976. In medical school, I have served as a tutor, teaching assistant, and member of Alpha Omega Alpha; and I also have been involved in research in colon cancer pathogenesis. I am 24 years old and single.



SAMUEL ALAN YOUSEM

Pathology
Stanford University Hospital — Stanford, California

Though I arrived from Duke University contemplating a degree in psychiatry, I find myself leaving University of Maryland about to enter a career in pathology. I don't know whether this reflects a massive change in personality or my experience at Maryland. Anyway, in addition to my academic pursuits, I was a representative, then President of the Student Council, an interviewer for the Admissions Committee and finally (with greatest pleasure) an organizer of both class whitewater raft trips. Spare time was spent skiing, and in research in ophthalmic pathology.

I would like to wish my colleagues the best of luck in their future endeavors and to thank friends, family, and faculty for their help, support, and good times.

GLORIA J. ZIBILICH

Family Practice
Mercy-St. Luke's Hospital — Davenport, Iowa

A native of Iowa, Gloria transferred to the University of Maryland during the second year, to be reunited with her fiance, who is a member of the class of 1982. Her plans include a Family Practice residency in Iowa to be followed by two years of service in the National Health Service Corps.

LAURIE TWILA ZIMMERMAN

Psychiatry
University Health Center Pittsburgh —
Pittsburgh, Pennsylvania

Laurie Twila Zimmerman is a former high school drop-out accepted to medical school after graduating Phi Beta Kappa in microbiology from the University of Maryland in College Park. Five days after completing her first semester of medical school she married John Frederick Keller, who subsequently decided to keep his own name. Although Laurie originally intended to pursue a career in family practice, she later decided to become a psychiatrist because she felt at home on the wards. During her junior year she had a daughter, Jessica Twila Keller, whose future medical career looks promising since she finished junior medicine pre-natally. Laurie has also been active in the American Medical Student Association, the Human Dimensions in Medical Education Program, and has served as editor of the student newspaper, The Aesculapian. Although she has tolerated her medical training relatively well thus far, she is eagerly awaiting a chance to learn something truly interesting and useful, such as square-dancing or photography.

THE OATH OF HIPPOCRATES

"I do solemnly swear, by that which I hold most sacred, that I will be loyal to the profession of medicine and just and generous to its members. That I will lead my life and practice my art in uprightness and honor. That into whatsoever house I shall enter it shall be for the good of the sick. To the utmost of my power I hold myself aloof from wrong, from corruption, from the tempting of others to vice. That I will exercise my art solely for the cure of my patients, and will give no drug, perform no operation, for a criminal purpose, even if solicited, far less suggest it. That whatsoever I shall see or hear, I will keep inviolably secret. These things I do promise and in proportion as I am faithful to this, my oath, may happiness and good repute be ever mine, the opposite if I shall be forsworn."
